La musique du dernier film de WALT DISNEY - MARY POPPINS - a été composée par les frères Sherman, Richard et Robert, et a contribué largement au succès de cette production.

DUKE ELLINGTON a été séduit par ces thèmes très agréables et il nous donne son interprétation personnelle de ce score... Bien entendu, tout en respectant l'esprit du film et de ses personnages, Duke a conçu ses orchestrations d'une manière typiquement « ellingtonienne », mettant en scène ses solistes dans chacune des scènes de cette féerie moderne imaginée par WALT DISNEY. On retrouve les solistes habituels de cette formation légendaire : Cootie, Hodges, Gonsalves, Russell Procope, Lawrence Brown et Harry Carney...

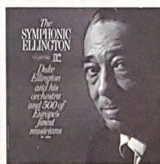

La très jolie musique de « Mary Poppins » permet à DUKE ELLINGTON et à ses musiciens de montrer une facette nouvelle de cette intelligence musicale collective qui a fait depuis tant d'années la gloire de l'orchestre.

The Wonderful music of Richard and Robert Sherman for the WALT DISNEY production « MARY POPPINS » largely contributed to the success of the picture.

DUKE ELLINGTON was interested by the music when he first heard it, and was determined to record his interpretation of the score. Whilst respecting the musical fantasy of the production, Duke's arrangements are typically Ellingtonian, and amongst his musicians one finds the usual, now almost legendary, soloists : Cootie Williams, Johnny Hodges, Paul Gonsalves, Russell Procope, Lawrence Brown and Harry Carney.

The amazing music of « Mary Poppins » shows us a new facet of the most famous name in jazz today... Duke Ellington.
